Though they cannot vote in the egular election in November, Atorney General Frank Roberson urging women to register in order to qualify themselves for voting in case of any future regulation or special election. Mr. Roberson authorized the following statement for the status

"Women are now eligible to register, and should register at once if they desire to qualify themselves for voting in any future regular or spe-cial election. They haust be register-ed four months in advance of such ed four months in advance of such election in order to vote. Women who register now are also qualified for appointments as notaries public.

"Women cannot legally vote in the regular election next November. To permit them to do so would annul that election and almost certainly result in throwing out Mississippi's electoral vote. Moreover, the voting of wo vote. Moreover, the voting of wo-men in the November election could accomplish no good, as the election certainly will go Democratic without their vote."

Attorney General Roberson urges the importance of women registering at once. The white women of the State must recognize that it is not only a privilege, but a duty to register and qualify themselves in order to protect the interests and ideals for which men have made so many sacrifices to obtain and hold.

But to Helena Richie this incident is not an "affair." It is her life. She loves Prior with a devotion engendered by her lonely, heart-starved existence and she looks forward to the moment when Frederic's death shall release her from her present precarious position, and allow her to confront the world with a clear name. That an ultimate marriage between them will wipe out the blot on their past she does not question. In the meantime she can only possess her soul of patience, and make the best of her enforced seclusion. No one knows her secret. No one can know it. There fore she feels quite secure—that is, as the ever-present danger of exposure. Into this fevered life of hers three important characters project themselves: Doctor Lavendar, the minis- Copyright, 1919, by the Post Publishing Co. ter of Old Chester; Dr. William King, the village physician; and David, an i orphan child whom the rector has befriended, and for whom he is desirous of finding a home. Of all Mrs. Deland's creations none, perhaps, is more beloved than is Doctor Lavendar. Wise, benign, humorous; yet just at all times—a man who is never to be turned aside from a principle by idle sentimentality. Doctor King is not unlike him in this unflinching fealty to duty and to honor.

These two persons put their heads together to decide that since Mrs. Richie leads such a solitary life and is abundantly able, she is the one to take the homeless David. The conspirators proceed with extreme caution. The child is brought to Doctor Lavendar's house, and Mrs. Richle is given the opportunity to see him.

He is a quaint, winsome, appealing little fellow-a decided personality, and one of the most delightful and consistent child portraits in modern fiction. His greatest attraction lies in to New York to the fact that one can never be sure what he will say next. Once when Doctor Lavendar is telling him a story he keeps his eyes fixed so intently on the man's face that the old gentleman is much flattered.

"Well, well, you are a great boy for stories, aren't you?" remarks the delighted minister.

"You've talked seven minutes," said David thoughtfully, "and you haven't moved your upper jaw once."

They have had much experience in women's clubs and through them have brought about many noteworthy reforms. It, is through these already established organizations that they can carry on campaigns of education for themselves and for others. Regardless of this or that party, women must make up their minds as to what sort of 'legislation they want and then undertake to get if by means of political parties. In local and in national affairs they must first inform themselves as to worthwhile issues and help to inform others. It is a game of publicity the spreading of information, keeping an eye on the performance of men in office and public officials of all sorts and keeping informed through newspapers and magazines on policies that are beneficial for all the people.

Any one at all familiar with the teamwork done by women in their clubs and various organizations, will acknowledge that they are always interested in benevolences; therefore it is safe to assume that they will undertake to reform abuses and to institute various improvements when they become convinced that they are needed. The most destructive of the many insects and other enemies of the cabbage family, is the caterpillar of the imported cabbage butterfly, sometimes called the white butterfly, a familiar object to nearly everyone. This is the imported cabbage worm, and is well known to farmers throughout this country and Europe as well, and the butterfly is generally recognized as the parent of the worms.

ACREAGE OF ALFALFA LARGEST OF LEGUMES

Plant Cut for Hay.

Significant Fact That More Than One Half of Tame Hay Area Now Devoted to Nutritive and Soll-Improving Crops

Alfalfa now bes an acreage greater than that of any other legume or grass cut for hay, not growing in combine-tion with another. Of the total tame hay acreage in 1919, alfairs occupied 21.1 per cent, timothy and clover mixed 18.2 per cent, timothy 15.9 per cent, clover 12.3 per cent, per 8.7 per cent, grain cut green, 77 per cent, and all others 16.1 per cent. If the acreage of the timothy and clever mixture is equally divided between those two plants, the timothy screege becomes 25 per cent of the total of tame hay acreage, and clover 21.4 per cent, so that timothy is still the leading hay plant and the clovers have second place, a little above alfalfa.

The leguminous plants, alfalfa clover, one half of clover and timothy, and pea are 51.2 per cent of the tame hay area, and it is a significant fact that more than one-half of the tame hay acreage is now devoted to plants of the nutritive and soil improving properties of the legumes, whereas, ten years ago, as the census testifies, hardly one-third of the tame hay area was leguminous. This comparison has been established by the bureau of crop estimates
